

A Window Between Worlds
Art as a Healing Tool

Women's & Children's Windows
Leadership Training
August 3rd, 2010
1:30-5:30

This Leadership Training prepares staff from domestic violence agencies to implement their own creative art workshops for the women and children in their programs. The training includes in-depth and hands-on training in the facilitation of art as a healing tool for women and children. The training session is often a very moving and profound experience and gives participants an inside understanding of what the art process will be like for the women and children in their groups.

Leaders need not be artists. The Windows Program specializes in offering art as a resource to non-artists.

AWBW PROGRAM SUPPORT

After attending the Windows Training, trained leaders can start their own Women's and/or Children's art program and receive on-going support from AWWB. Active programs are encouraged to hold workshops on a regular weekly schedule and are required to report monthly.

Reporting programs receive the following types of support:

On-Going Consultation: After the training, AWWB responds to leaders' monthly reports by writing, email, and/or phone. This regular contact ensures close support of each program.

Monthly Leader's Updates: AWWB publishes monthly Leader's Updates to share new workshops with the entire network of leaders. Explore years' worth of tips, highlights and variations generated by hundreds of current and former leaders.

Exhibition Opportunities: AWWB offers all active Windows programs the opportunity to participate in art exhibitions designed to help break the silence and end the violence in our communities.

Art Supplies: In order to provide collaborating programs with the necessary resources to facilitate art workshops AWWB offers art supply funding opportunities throughout the year.

Online Support: Access the entire curriculum of over 200 Women's & Children's Windows art workshops developed since 1991. Search for workshops by age, emotional theme and strength to identify projects best suited to your clients' needs and circumstances. Submit Reports online!
